I. True Religion

- A. The occasion of this message: advice to a friend. A teacher (Henry Scougal) who dearly loved his student and friend wrote him a “letter.”
- B. Mistakes about religion; what it is not
1. It is not simply in the understanding.
 2. It is not simply in external duties.
 3. It is not simply in the feelings.
- C. What religion is
- “True religion is a union of the soul with God, a real participation of the divine nature, the very image of God drawn upon the soul, or, in the apostle’s phrase; ‘it is Christ formed within us.’ Briefly, I know not how the nature of religion can be more fully expressed, than by calling it a divine life.”
- True religion is the life of God in the soul of man! It is Christ in you (Col. 1:27)!
- D. What makes up the divine life?
1. The root of the divine life is faith.
 2. The chief branches are
 - a. love to God
 - 1) The love of God is a delightful and affectionate sense of God,
 - 2) which makes the soul resign and surrender itself wholly unto Him,
 - 3) desiring above all things to please Him,
 - 4) and delighting in nothing so much as in fellowship and communion with Him,

5) and being ready to do or suffer any thing for His sake, or at His pleasure. It is a turning toward (in acceptance of) God!

b. charity to man

Charity to man includes

- 1) all the parts of justice, which includes all the duties we owe to our neighbors, and
- 2) resentment toward any evil that befalls others, as if it happened to ourselves, and
- 3) acceptance of his creaturehood, respecting his person, and embracing him with a sincere and warm affection.

c. purity

- 1) Purity is mastery over the bodily appetites;
- 2) it is such an attitude of mind as make a man despise and abstain from all pleasures and delights which are sinful in themselves, or which tend to extinguish or lessen our relish of more divine and intellectual pleasures,
- 3) it also includes a determination to go through all those hardships the person may meet with in the performance of his duty. Purity has to do with denying our wrong or lesser desires.

d. humility

- 1) Humility includes a deep sense of our own meanness,
- 2) with a hearty admission that any good we are or have is by God's grace;
- 3) which is always accompanied with a complete submission to the will of God,
- 4) and great deadness toward the glory of the world and the applause of men.

E. Religion is better understood by actions than by words.

‘The serious and attentive study of Christ’s holy life is the best way to get right measures of humility, and all the other parts of religion, which I have described.’

1. His love to God

a. His diligence in doing God’s will

- b. His patience in bearing it
- c. His constant devotion
- 2. His charity to men
- 3. His purity
- 4. His humility

When pursuing the life of God in the soul of man, study the life of the only Man who demonstrated it perfectly.

II. The Advantages of True Religion

(The excellency and advantage of true religion in general is that “Christ in you” (true religion) is the right balance, the vigorous and healthful constitution of the soul.)

A. The excellency and advantages of loving God.

1. “The true way to improve and ennoble our souls, is, by fixing our love on the divine perfections, that we may have them always before us, and derive an impression of them on ourselves, and ‘beholding with open face, as in a glass, the glory of the Lord, [we may be changed] into the same image, from glory to glory’” (II Cor. 3:18).
2. As loving God advances and elevates the soul; so it is only in loving God that a soul can be made truly happy.
3. Perfect love is a kind of self-dereliction; thus, one who loves is quite undone, unless he meets with reciprocal affection.
How happy are those who have placed their love on Him who can never be absent from them! They need but open their eyes, and they shall everywhere behold the signs of His presence and glory, and talk with Him whom their soul loves, and this makes the darkest prison or wildest desert not only livable, but delightful to them.
4. Loving God makes us partake of infinite happiness.
5. He who loves God finds sweetness in every dispensation.

6. The duties of religion become delightful to one who loves God.
- B. The excellency and advantages of charity (loving others).
1. What can be more noble and generous than a heart enlarged to embrace the whole world?
 2. To have my heart possessed with the greatest kindness and affection towards all men in the world would make me partake in all the happiness of others.
- C. The excellency and advantages of purity.
1. There is no slavery so base as that whereby a man becomes a drudge to his own lusts, or victory so glorious as that victory which is obtained over them.
 2. “Over-doing it” and lack of control, and all inordinate lusts, are so much enemies to the health of the body, and the interests of this present life, that a little thinking might cause any rational man to stop them just for that reason.
- D. The excellency and advantages of humility.
1. Humility keeps men from dwelling on trifles, or admiring themselves because of some petty attainments.
 2. The proud and arrogant person is a trouble to all that converse with him, but most of all unto himself: every thing is enough to vex him, but scarce any thing sufficient to content and please him.

III. The Despondent Thoughts of Some (newly) Awakened to a Right Sense of Things

- A. When I reflect on my highest attainments, I have reason to suspect, that they are all done “in the flesh,” the fruit of self-love acting under several disguises; and this principle is so powerful, and so deeply rooted in me, that I can never hope to be delivered from the dominion of it. (I am tempted to think this or some other discouraging thought.)
- B. Let us encourage ourselves with those mighty aids God has given us in this spiritual warfare.
1. Let us be strong in the Lord, and the power of His might.
 2. He has committed the care of our souls to no lesser person than the eternal Son of His love.
 3. He has sent out His Holy Spirit, whose sweet but powerful breathings are still moving up and down in the world, to quicken and revive the souls of men.
 4. Sin and corruption are but usurpers, and though they have long ruled, yet “from the beginning it was not so.”
 5. We still have so much reason left that we ought to be wholly devoted to Him from whom we have our being.
 6. The Church throughout the world is daily interceding with God for the success of all such endeavors.
 7. Heavenly hosts above are desirous to see the divine life thriving and prevailing in this world.

C. We must do what we can, and then depend on the divine assistance. A farmer cannot simply pray in a good harvest; he must plant, cultivate, wait, and reap.

IV. Directions Outlining our Responsibilities in Seeing Christ Formed in Us

- A. Shun all manner of evil. (Eschew evil, especially companionship.)
1. Know what things are sinful,
 - a. not by comparing to what those around us say, but
 - b. by contemplating the Word, and by then turning away from the sin it reveals.
 2. Consider the evils sinning will dump on us.
 - a. Consider the fearfulness of offending that infinite Being on whom we hang and depend every moment, who needs but to withdraw His mercies to make us miserable, or His assistance to make us nothing.
 - b. Remember the shortness and uncertainty of our lives.
 - c. Represent to yourself the terrors of that dreadful day.
 - d. Consider the eternal punishment of the damned souls.
 3. Keep a constant watch over yourself.
 4. Examine your actions.
 5. Restrain yourself in many lawful things.
 6. Strive to put yourself out of love with the world.
- B. Do those outward actions that are commanded. (Fulfill obligations.)
1. Attend His services.

2. Listen to His Word.
 3. Speak reverently of His name.
 4. Praise His goodness.
 5. Exhort others to serve and obey Him.
 6. Do not omit any occasion of doing your neighbors good.
 7. Study a modest and humble deportment.
- C. Endeavor to form internal acts of devotion, charity, etc. (Cultivate love.)
1. Lift up your heart toward God primarily by thinking about Him.
 2. If you cannot say that you love Him above all things, at this time, at least, acknowledge that it is your duty to love Him above all things.
 3. Lament the dishonor done unto Him by foolish and sinful men.
 4. Applaud the praises that are given Him by that blessed and glorious company above, the heavenly hosts.
 5. Resign and yield yourself up unto Him a thousand times, to be governed by His laws.
 6. Tell Him that you are convinced that His will is always just and good.
- D. Contemplate Him and truth.
1. To enhance the divine life in general, contemplate true doctrine, including
 - a. the creation
 - b. man and his nature
 - c. heaven
 - d. (the) incarnation
 - e. (the) crucifixion
 - f. sanctification
 - g. intercession
 - h. His daily ministry of grace
 2. To beget love for God, contemplate the excellency of His divine nature and His love toward us. He loves you whether or not you feel it!

- a. Picture the clearest notion that you can of a Being, infinite in power, in wisdom, and goodness, the author and fountain of all perfection.
 - b. Meditate on His goodness and love.
 - 1) He gave you your being, and, by preserving you in it, renews the donation every moment.
 - 2) He has testified His affection to you by suffering as well as by doing.
 - 3) Keep a register in your mind of all the blessings and deliverances you have met with.
3. To beget charity,
- a. Remember that all men are “near relations” to God.
 - 1) God laid the designs of man’s happiness before the foundations of the world; i.e., union with Him!
 - 2) Since every soul is dearer unto Him than all the material world, and He did not account the blood of His Son too great a price for their Redemption, so ought we to have charity toward all men.
 - b. Remember that all men carry His image upon them.
The most sin-diseased soul has sparkles of the divine image, and ought to be pitied, not detested.
4. To beget purity,
- a. Consider the dignity of your nature.
What a shameful and unworthy thing it is for so noble and divine a creature as the soul of man to be sunk in brutish lust, and so to lose the relish of spiritual pleasures.
 - b. Meditate often on the joys of heaven.
Represent to your thoughts the joys that are at God’s right hand.
5. To beget humility,
- a. Consider your failings.
The thoughts that pass in our heart in the best and most serious days of our lives, being exposed unto public view, would render us either hateful or ridiculous.

- b. Consider God's perfection in His purity and goodness.

That humility which comes from a view of our own sinfulness and misery is more turbulent and boisterous than in viewing His attributes.

- E. Pray constantly.

Holiness is the gift of God, indeed the greatest gift He bestows, or we are capable to receive; and He has promised His Holy Spirit to those that ask it of Him.

- F. Participate knowledgeably in the Lord's table, contemplating and confessing your sin and sinfulness and His love and holiness.
